Negroes from the West Indies, the United States and various parts of Canada represented over 50% of the 135 complaints of discrimination based on race, religion or nationality.

Asians from India, Pakistan, Ceylon and Jordan represent about 17% of this figure.

Canadian Indians have recently emerged as complainants in formal cases and represent about 10% of the complainants in this group; new immigrants of Polish, Greek, Yugoslav, Egyptian, Hungarian and English origin -- 5%; Jewish complainants -- 5% and French Canadians -- approximately 2%.
